How many places can someone fly planes for class or learn how to call a football game for their major? The College of Liberal Arts at Auburn allows students to do these things, and so much more. Auburn University has a wide-ranging set of opportunities for students to pursue. This is displayed especially in the College of Liberal Arts. Very few universities have a variety of majors and careers available to students than at Auburn. In the CLA, students can focus on anything from learning the history of the world to mastering arts and music. All of these lead to great accomplishments by CLA learners during their time at Auburn and around the world. Graduates of this college have gone on to do great things in their careers and lives. What I want to do for the College of Liberal Arts is to provide more opportunities for students of these programs to be successful and allow for more recognition of the awesome achievements that the people do here every day. As a fellow member of CLA in the Professional Flight major, I can best represent your interests in the Senate of the Student Government Association. Representing the students of Auburn is an honorable and important duty, and I know that I can use leadership and service skills I have developed over the years to speak to students and then relay their messages to create real and impactful legislation and ideas.

Being a Senator for the College of Liberal Arts is particularly challenging, due to the very nature of the institution. The scope and range of the students and programs within the college are so vast and diverse. This can make it difficult for the elected representatives to represent the whole college. I believe that I have a solution to this quandary.

I, as Senator for the College of Liberal Arts, will represent and fight for change that will benefit all students. In these times with a global pandemic, many students will feel the financial pressures that come along with this. I will always keep this in mind and know that an increase in costs and fees can make the difference between whether someone can attend college or not. As students at Auburn, we want to utilize our Student Government to create change for our daily lives and to feel that we are heard. This is the most important thing our SGA can do for us, and I will make sure that, if elected, I can hold myself accountable to the people I represent. At the end of the day, the most important thing to me is making sure that I have made a positive impact on everything I do and I hope that I will be able to bring this spirit to the SGA Senate and make the lives of the students better in the College of Liberal Arts at Auburn University.
