Success In Spidle will strive for the overall quality of education through transparency, efficiency, and professionalism. Because The College of Human Sciences is one of the smallest colleges on Auburn's campus and the majors are so vastly different; this can cause a disconnect between students. Within the majors in The College of Human Sciences, we seek to obtain an understanding and appreciation that goes beyond the required entry level classes. Through this appreciation, we hope to unite the students through all our diverse majors where we can create a graduating class with mutual respect for interests other than their own and an acknowledgement for the talents of their peers.

Success In Spidle hopes to work with both faculty and administration to bridge the gap where communication can sometimes fall short. Success In Spidle hopes to be the voice for students when there is a question or concern regarding the operations of The College of Human Sciences. Through frequent meetings with faculty, administration, and students, this will ensure everyone's voices and concerns are being heard.

Because The College of Human Sciences is so small and has little representation in Student Government Association, it is important for the student body to elect candidates who are both qualified and passionate about representing the college to the best of their ability. Success In Spidle believes they are best equipped to represent the humans at Auburn University.
