

Name: Faith Lane

Year: 03

Major: Agricultural Business and Economics

Qualifications:

- Auburn Ag Ambassador
- Auburn College of Ag Involvement Committee Member
- Auburn Collegiate Cattlemen and Cattlewomen Social Media/Reporter Chair
- Auburn Ag Student Council
- Auburn Young Farmers Member

Platform:

Agriculture plays a crucial role in the life of an economy and is the backbone of our economic system. Being raised and working on our family cattle farm gives me a passion to contribute and promote the agricultural industry. Auburn University is known as a premier college of agriculture and for its development of students, faculty, and staff as national and global leaders in the world's largest industry. Not only did I choose Auburn for its involvement in the agriculture industry, but I also wanted to attend the university where I have grown up being its biggest fan!

I would be an exceptional Vice President because of my deep passion for the agriculture industry and great love for Auburn University. Several factors lead me to believe I would make a qualified candidate for this position including my strong work ethic, love for the agricultural community along with my organizational, communication, leadership, and time management skills. I strive to work alongside my committee members to create a vision and successfully execute these goals to enhance and promote our school. Through this position, I desire to enhance the student involvement within the college by making information more accessible and encouraging the participation of organizations. By representing the student body, I hope to serve my peers well while ultimately creating a positive college experience.