My name is Rebecca Chow-Wah, and I am thrilled to have the opportunity of running for President of the Harbert College of Business. I had always dreamed of going to Auburn University following in my older sister's footsteps. Something that I will always cherish and can truly call my own is my love and dedication for the Harbert College of Business. Coming into Auburn, I had very little knowledge of HCOB but knew I wanted to get involved and learn more. Having this goal from the very start is what set me up for the best experience I could get as a business student. Over the past two years I have gotten involved with Executive Society and Business Schools Council which has given me a broad view of what the college of business is about from a current student and prospective student view. I was able to serve on Schools Council this past year on the Alumni Relations and Student Mentorship team which opened my eyes up to the countless opportunities we have to make a change for our student body. I believe that with this exposure and knowledge I will be able to effectively serve and attend to all students' needs and feedback to further improve the Harbert College of Business. I want to continue to uphold all the values of HCOB while being an active listener to the members of the college in order to do this job correctly. I want to emphasize that this would truly be such an honor and privilege to represent the students of Harbert.

Name: Danielle Norris

Major: Accounting

Qualifications:

Chi Omega Secretary

Women in Business

Platform:

My name is Danielle Norris, and I am excited to be a candidate for Senator of the Raymond J. Harbert College of Business. I believe that I would serve well as a senator representing the business college because of my communication skills and problem-solving abilities. Coming from out of state, I bring a diverse set of perspectives and ideas to the table. I have moved states multiple times growing up which requires adaptability and open-mindedness. Although moving away from home is hard, Auburn immediately felt like home. I am not a legacy, and did not know many people that went to Auburn, but now Auburn, especially the Harbert College of Business, is my family. The College of Business continues to teach me so much and I would love to have the opportunity to represent the students. I have a deep appreciation for all that this University has done for me and I am excited to give back. I think that it is important to have a seamless connection between Business Senators and business students on student affairs and feedback. If elected Senator, my top priority will be to bridge the gap between Senators and students for student engagement and continuous improvement in the college. Feedback is essential for evaluating the effectiveness of different programs, mentorships, and more within the college. It also allows for informed decision-making by the senators. I would consider it a privilege to serve and advocate for the students of the Harbert College of Business.

Harbert College of Business Senator

Platform:

My name is Carter Inman, and I have the privilege of being a candidate for Senator of the Harbert College of Business. I am excited to share my love and devotion to this University in this leadership role. My love for Auburn has been passed down from my siblings and family, who have attended the University. This love and dedication to serving would make me a great Senator for the University and allow me to display my passion for communicating and my ability to relate to various people. Effective communication will be vital in a Senator position, and I will be fair and open-minded, which allows me to see other people's point of view. I also have a neurological disability that causes weakness in my lower extremities. My disability allows me to see the world from a different perspective and connect with people from untraditional walks of life. This point of view will be necessary when invoking changes that will benefit people and give them a better Auburn experience. My platform focuses on advocating for every student and ensuring each student's needs are met. In doing so, we hope to personally impact Auburn students and make them more active on campus. If elected Senator, my top priority will be improving the Auburn experience for all students and creating an environment where students love to learn. It would be an honor to serve and represent the Harbert College of Business students.

Platform:

My name is Jack Thompson and I couldn't be more excited about the opportunity to run for the position of SGA senator in the Harbert College of Business. I have grown up loving this university and I could not be more excited to represent it and give back what it has given to me. I seriously have a love for Auburn that I believe is special and that makes me want to make it a better place for all. I think that if you love something you will put your all into it, and I plan to put my all through this role. I am able to represent all students and make an impact from the diverse groups/activities that I have been a part of, but the most important thing to me is listening. One of my biggest goals is to hear from everyone and get their ideas and plans to actually happen and make them feel that they have an impactful voice at Auburn and in the College of Business. I am also one of the few freshmen representing and I want to be able to get the freshman and lower classes excited about Auburn and help them learn from those who have been in the same shoes. It is truly an honor and privilege to have the opportunity to serve Auburn and the HCOB well.
