My name is Bailey Irvin, and I am thrilled to be a part of “How Bout’ Thach” for Auburn’s College of Liberal Arts. The Student Government Association is an impactful organization for Auburn’s campus because representatives listen to the concerns of Auburn students to make the university the best it can be. As the vice president of the student council of CLA, I plan to listen to the students' ideas in my college to ensure their academic success and satisfaction.

If elected, the “How Bout’ Thach” Ticket has three main objectives as the voice for Auburn’s CLA. First, we wish to improve communication between students, faculty, and other members of SGA. We plan to enforce interaction between CLA and SGA by utilizing office hours and social media platforms.

Auburn’s CLA has multiple differing majors, which causes a detachment between students and faculty. The “How Bout’ Thach” Ticket plans to enforce relationships between the students and faculty members who feel a disconnection between themselves and the college to which they belong.

Lastly, “How Bout’ Thach” wants overall success for the entirety of Auburn’s campus, and this starts with giving power to students' voices. Auburn’s SGA must consist of dedicated individuals who desire to improve the atmosphere for students.
