War Eagle! I'm so excited to continue my term as President of the College of Veterinary Medicine. As we look ahead to the next year, my aim is to continue to foster relationships between our undergraduate, graduate, and professional students and build collaboration within our college. My goal is to collect student feedback to plan events that are tailored to our student's interests. I'm looking forward to partnering with other student organizations within the College of Veterinary Medicine and encouraging our students to get involved in their passions. I can't wait to help welcome our incoming students in the Fall, both in the professional program and our undergraduate freshmen. It is important to me for our students to be able to make personal connections with each other and with their professors, and I'm very excited to help foster this type of environment within our college!
